

EVALUATION OF FINDINGS IN THE INVESTIGATION OF GASTRO-DUODENAL DISORDERS.

A THESIS
for the degree of
DOCTOR OF MEDICINE in the
UNIVERSITY OF ADELAIDE

by
RAPHAEL LEO KENIHAN,
M.C., M.B., B.S., M.R.A.C.P.

FOREWORD.

My paper reveals nothing new in the field of medical research but, in that peptic ulcer with its associate conditions, presents definite variations in symptomatology and incidence in various lands, and is, at the present time, a subject of world-wide interest and debate, any stimulation of thought calculated to establish local conditions and types, and make for more accurate diagnosis is, I submit, an advance in medical knowledge.

Table of Contents

Foreword

Introduction

Cases 1 – 47

Summary

Conclusions

References