

period known in Australia was which occurred just below the base of the Cambrian rocks, over 550 million years ago, according to the radio active scale of Barrell. The rocks of this contained indubitable records of ice over an immense area, extending throughout the Mount Lofty Ranges, the Aders Ranges, and the highlands traversed by the Broken Hill railway line.

R. L. Jack (Deputy-Director of Mines) had found a north-westerly extension of those rocks near Moorilyanna, 165 miles west-north-west of Oodnadatta. The glacial period represented—that of the carboniferous time—occurred about 200 million years ago; and the still later extension of cretaceous time was never less than 80 million years old.

Dr. Ward's thesis was supported by a number of papers and reports dealing with stratigraphical and structural geology of Tasmania; with the genesis and occurrence of mineral deposits in Tasmania and South Australia; with physiography and geographical aspects of geology; and with problems of underground water supply, mineral production, and the development of mineral resources of various kinds.

and Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G minor" by Mr. Horace Perkins. The programme concluded with a piano duo, "Concerto Pathétique" (Liszt) by Mr. Frank Holman, A.M.U.A., and Miss Gwen Adamson, A.M.U.A., which was strikingly well presented throughout. Miss Esma Roach (Elder scholar), a young violinist who plays with considerable expression, gave a charming rendering of the first movement of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E minor." Miss Roach was recalled three times at the close of her number. Miss Clarice Gmeiner, A.M.U.A., played the second movement of the "Concerto in G minor" (Max Bruch) with effect, good tonal quality, and delightful finish. Mr. Val Robertson was twice recalled for his cello solo, the "Sonata in C major," by Marcelllo, which he interpreted quite admirably. The accompanists were Mr. Stanley Palmer and Miss Muriel Price, A.M.U.A., Albee Meegan, A.M.U.A., and Joan Mellowship.

SYLUM FOR UNIVERSITY.

In outlining the attitude of the Government on the motion of the Hon. David Gordon, that the premises of the Government in regard to making some grounds of the Parkside Mental Hospital available to the University, should be honoured, the Chief Secretary (Hon. J. J. Jelley) stated in the Legislative Council on Thursday evening, that steps were being taken to accommodate mental patients at Enfield. The building of an institution to absorb the whole of the patients at Parkside would take a number of years, and would cost about £1,000,000. A report on the question had been received by the Vaughan Government, showing the difficulties of removal. The University authorities had considered, on the grounds of economy, and the importance of students of all classes mixing together, it was inadvisable to separate one part of the University from another. Sir David Gordon pointed out that this aspect did not enter into the question as it was desired that residential colleges should be established at Parkside. The Chief Secretary felt it might be advisable, before members voted on the question, to ascertain the latest views of the University authorities on the subject. Further discussion was deferred until Tuesday.

Third Examination (Fifth Year).—Passed with Credit (in order of merit)—London, Alan Harding; Chandler, Arthur James. Passed (in alphabetical order)—Cashmore, George Herbert; Crabbe, Gavin Murray; Davis, Harold Jullian; Gallasch, Frank Edward; Hackett, Cecil John; Harbison, Alan Thomas; Kelly, Michael; Kranz, Sydney; Lawrence, Bruce Ernest; McKay, Douglas Gordon; Magarey, Ivan Sandilands; Peters, Geoffrey Ernest, B.A.; Phillips, Frank; Riddle, Wynne St. Clare; Sangster, John Clive; Schafer, David Paul Hannaford; Schafer, Noel Theodore Hannaford; Solomon, George Herbert; Thomas, Marjorie Phyllis Casley; Trudinger, Malcolm August; Willing, Charles Eric; Woolcock, Rosalyn James.

AUSTRALIAN MUSIC EXAMINATIONS BOARD.

The examiners have recommended that the scholarship for practice of music offered by the University of Adelaide in connection with the Australian Music Examinations Board be awarded to Miss Norah Margaret Noonan, of St. Scholastica's College, Mount Barker. The award is made on the results of a special examination of those candidates who at the board's examinations in the preceding September, obtained honours or credit in either Grade I. or Grade II., Practice of Music. The examiners consider that Miss Noonan who is fifteen years of age, shows exceptional promise of future development, combined with a very meritorious attainment for one so young.

REG. 1/12/26
ELDER CONSERVATORIUM.

Final Students' Concert.

The Elder Conservatorium students' concert at the Elder Hall on Monday evening was a very special occasion. Not only was it the final concert for the year, but the occasion of conferring diplomas by the vice-chancellor of the University (Professor W. Mitchell) to those who had gained the Associateship. These successful students in their places at the front of the hall formed an interesting group. There was a large attendance. In an interval the director of the Conservatorium (Professor Harold Davies, Mus. Doc.) presented to the Vice-Chancellor the associates in music for 1926, and the scholars recommended for 1927. The associates were:—Gladys Amy Thelma Henry (principal subject, pianoforte), Mavis Lacey Hurn (singing), Marjorie Freda Lee (pianoforte), Jean Rainsbury Litchfield (pianoforte), Hannah Olive Marrett (singing), Arnold Hatherleigh Matters (singing), Constance Cecily McGrath (pianoforte), Eric Enstone McLaughlin (violin), Horace James Perkins (pianoforte), Jean Rosabelle Taylor (pianoforte), Lillian May Walsh (singing), and Irene Margaret Thomson Webb (pianoforte). The Elder scholar (singing), Ruth Winifred Naylor; the Elder scholar (violin), Katy Yoerger; the Alderman scholar, Arthur Roger Willson; the public examinations in music scholar, A.M.E.B., Nora Margaret Noonan.

There were only six vocal numbers, but each had its special interest. Miss Valda Harvey won emphatic applause the elaborate and exacting ornamentation. Miss Margaret Pirie sang with marked effect Saint-Saens' song "Fair spring is returning" from "Samson and Delilah." Her voice had a mellow tone, and her clear enunciation was not the least charm in her interpretation.

Miss Ruth Naylor (Elder scholar) had an enthusiastic reception, and won warm applause for her rendering of two songs by Dupare, "Soupir" and "Elegie." Continuous tone, true and clear, and an unaffected manner marked her singing. Miss Elsa Lademann gave an expressive interpretation of the recit and aria "My heart is weary" ("Nadeshda") by A. Goring-Thomas, which suited her voice admirably. Miss Hazel Whitford was well received in "Hindu child's rain song" and "Sing, break into song," by Mallinson. Particularly good in every way—tone, enunciation, and feeling—was Miss Grace Cussion's singing of "Si me chiamano," from Puccini's "La Boheme." The piano numbers included Brahms' "Rhapsodie," for the playing of which Miss Olive Dyer was thrice recalled; "La Cathedrale Eugoutie" and "Poissons d'or" (Debussy), given with clear touch and admirable feeling by Miss Peggy Palmer (Elder scholar), who was twice recalled; Beethoven's "Sonata in F flat, op. 31" (last movement), by Miss Jessie Dix, who was also well received.

NEWS, 7/12/26.

NEWS 1/12/26.

ELDER CONSERVATORIUM
Final Concert by Students

The last concert of the season was given in the Elder Hall last night, when the programme was given by senior students who showed much talent and achievement.

Mr. Horace Perkins opened the proceedings with a careful rendering of Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Minor," which showed conscientious study. This was followed by a rendering of the recit and aria, "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster," from Weber's "Oberon," a long and difficult excerpt, which Miss Valda Harvey sang with much intelligence, although her words were not always distinct.

The first movement of Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor" for violin was played by a young Elder scholar, Miss Esma Roach. This clever little violinist played from memory, and with much style and finish, doing dexterous work with the long cadenza.

Miss Margaret Pirie displayed a good contralto voice in "Fair Spring is Returning" from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah," and Miss Ruth Naylor gave two modern French songs by Dupare, "Soupir" and "Elegie," in which she exhibited a good range and fine resonance of tone.

ADU 8/12/26
LEAGUE OF NATIONS UNION.

ADDRESS BY PROFESSOR NAYLOR
At the League of Nations Union's weekly luncheon on Tuesday, Professor Darnley Naylor delivered his final address, prior to leaving for England. The Lord Mayor (Mr. Wallace Bruce) and Mrs. Darnley Naylor were present.

Mr. J. Howard Vaughan, who presided, introduced Professor Naylor, who said he had never realised how difficult it would be to speak on such an occasion; his last public appearance before them. He had also to speak on behalf of Mrs. Naylor, to whom the movement owed so much (applause), and who had always the thought of the League before her. The future of the League was a big subject to speak on, but the future laid with the people. It was their duty to bring more and more people into the movement. The future of the League depended upon the encouragement of local associations. He referred to the organisation at Geneva and how its work had prevented Abyssinia from being split in two. Abyssinia was protected by the public opinion of the world, and had preserved her freedom. With regard to the mandated territories, their duty to them was a great one. There was something wrong with the mandated territories of New Guinea. It was wrong of Australia to hide matters which should be brought into the open which was being done. There had been much nonsense spoken about the evil influence the League of Nations wrought. He refused to speak of it, it was so impossible. An example of that nonsense was given by Signor Francesco Coppola, who said "the League existed in order to destroy the Roman Catholic Church." Such remarks were absurd. In closing he said he would never forget their kindness, and he would never forget the power he had acquired in Australia. He was reminded of his great friend, Professor Henry Jones, who said, when speaking of the troubled affairs of the world, "Take courage, for the Lord reigneth, let the world rejoice." (Applause.)

The chairman announced that the essay competition on "What the League of Nations has done," resulted as follows:—Senior division—C. R. Whitting (Adelaide High School), 1; M. L. W. Bevan (Adelaide High School), 2; and Florence L. Reynolds (Unley High School), 3. Junior division—L. Oldmeadow (Unley High School), 1; Marjorie E. Pryor (Mount Barker High School), 2; Olive R. Medway (Nuriootpa High School), 3.
