

February 3, 1937

Dear Barbacki,

I think I must have failed to acknowledge your letter of December 24th and the beautiful photographs which you sent with it.

I am afraid that "Student" intends to continue a controversy about randomisation, which is a great pity, since he has never really grasped the effects of randomisation and still thinks of it as an obstacle in the way of high precision.

Yours sincerely,