

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE CLUB

President: EARL (BERTRAND) RUSSELL, O.M., M.A., F.R.S.

as from / History of Science Museum,

Tuesday

Dear Sir Ronald,

May I just remind you of the arrangements for next Monday's meeting (the 22nd)?

I will bring Braithwaite, who will give his paper, - it being an exposition of Wald's minimax methods. Then the discussion will open from the floor with you 'kicking off', as it were. I take it that you will have quite a few things to say about the Wald-Neymann-Pearson bunch on that occasion. But I have announced, and will announce again on Monday, that your full reply will come in the first meeting of next term (on that occasion Kraitwaite will open the discussion from the floor)

Incombe will report both meetings for The Cambridge Review; I think he is also bringing up some statisticians from London, so it should be a jolly lively evening.

I hope these arrangements are to your liking, Sir Ronald. Perhaps you will sit somewhere near the front of the audience, please? - 8:25 is the time.

Yours sincerely,

Harwood Russell Hanson

P.S. Will be competing with Hartree, - but that's his hard luck!

P.P.S. Will you bring Lawrence Payne along, - I hope?

P.P.P.S. Could we call your talk next term

'On Choosing between Statistical Hypotheses'?
