

18th. March 1946.

My dear Professor Darrois,

I was glad to receive your letter of March 15th., telling me of the arrangements that have been made. When formerly in Paris, lodgings were kindly obtained for me in the Cité Universitaire, but I should be much obliged if you would book me accommodation in any suitable place available. I do not know whether it is so difficult in Paris as in London to obtain accommodation, but in this country the difficulties are acute and can only be mastered on the spot. Naturally I will not require particularly luxurious apartments.

On Monday, 25th. I hope to travel on the midday plane from Northolt, scheduled to arrive at Le Bourget Airport at 1.45 p.m. Perhaps one of your friends will meet and guide me, as I do not know my way about Paris.

Yours sincerely,
