

9 May 1931.

Professor E.B. Poulton, F.R.S.,
Wykeham House,
OXFORD.

Dear Professor Poulton,

I have heard from the University Registrar that the Board of Management of the Herbert Spencer Lectureship have done me the honour of asking me to deliver the lecture in 1932. It is a very great pleasure to me to accept this invitation.

I shall be sailing for the States on Friday week, so I suppose further arrangements can be left till next September, when I shall be back. I hope I shall have the pleasure of meeting you at the British Association in that month, and then settling the title and date of the lecture.

Yours sincerely,
