

69

Walja and Kweenda both had fire, but would not let Wordung have any, so the Wordung had always to eat their meat raw. Two parrakeets (kowerr) wanted to get the fire from the Kweenda, so they followed him and followed him to try and obtain it, but the Kweenda carried it inside of him and they could not get it. At length they killed Kweenda with their dow'uk (clubs), and the fire came out of his baia (rump) and they took the fire and put it in all the trees, white gum, blackboy, mungaitch and all the others, the kowerr burned them all. Then he put the rest of the fire underneath his arm, which gave him his scarlet underwing. He showed the natives how to get fire from the blackboy stems.